THANKSGIVING

When the Fathers of New England celebrated the first Thanksgiving, everyone, except the turkeys and possibly the Indians, had something for which to be thankful. And even the Indians doubtless were thankful that the Mayflower wasn't keeping a regular trans-Atlantic schedule.

We have gone a long way since 1621 and have much more to be thankful for than the Pilgrims had. While we are about it, of course, we ought to be thankful for the Pilgrims, themselves, who were simple, staunch souls not to be confused with the godly but bossy and acquisitive Puritans who followed in great numbers to New England. But let us be thankful for the Puritans, too, because they were essential to the making of America—and let us be quick to add thanks that, while Puritans were peopling New England, English Cavaliers, Scottish Highlanders, venturesome Irishmen, keen, lively French and stout burghers out of Holland were settling elsewhere along the Atlantic seaboard. All were necessary to the nation which was to be born a century and a half later.

And this year 130 million Americans, most of whose ancestors were scattered over several dozen Old World nations on the Pilgrim's first Thanksgiving, more than three centuries ago, can give thanks for a myriad of things. It is human nature to feel a sense of virtue in good fortune. We Americans aren't exempt from that tendency. We are inclined to assume that our national security, our national wealth and the other advantages which we enjoy over the peoples of Europe and Asia must be due to some strong, subtle virtue within ourselves. Of course, if we stop to think, we realize that the Atlantic Ocean and our forefathers' foresight in crossing it—to say nothing of the Pacific Ocean and other races' forbearance in not crossing it—have had a lot to do with the superior advantages for which we pat ourselves on the back.

To what, then shall we attribute the blessings which are America's? To our geographical position? To the heroism and wisdom of those who founded our nation and carried it through dark days of trial and combat. Whom shall we thank?

The Pilgrims, we have said, were simple souls. When they celebrated the first Thanksgiving, no doubts were in their minds as to the source of the more meager blessings of that earlier America. They thanked God.

WHY MEN GO HUNTING

Annually at this season deer hunters are sternly taken to task by the humanitarians for their indulgence of the "killer" instinct. That there are ruthless killers among the army of men who shoulder rifles and invade our forests no one can doubt. It is probable, however, that the number of these and the savagery of their disposition is greatly overestimated.

The majority of hunters, we believe, have no insatiable craving for blood, and in fact are rather relieved if chance spares them the sight of a buck and the sporting obligation of putting a bullet through it. Hardly one hunter in 10 ever makes a kill, and yet we can't remember one who, on his return home, looked particularly downcast over this failure. It is our conviction that men are drawn to the woods mainly by a homesickness for the woods themselves.

The Great Game of Politics

rate, it seems worth while making clear the sort of plans his friends have for him and for the President.

THE state of sageliness into which his Presidential candidacy has now sunk is such as to compel its abandonment, and the Chief Justice idea has been seized upon with enthusiasm by the "inner circle" boys. Their argument is that, should Mr. Hughes retire while Mr. Roosevelt is still President, the Douglas designation would be practically assured. The President could not, they contend, name Justice Frankfurter, who is far abler and better fitted, because he is a Jew, although that does not seem a sound reason. Mr. Douglas, then, it is asserted, would be the logical selection.

THE points in his favor are listed as follows: first, he is an intimate friend of the President; second, he is "one of us"; third, he is an "indigenous American." Arguing along these lines, some of Mr. Douglas' friends have worked themselves into quite a state of excitement about making him Chief Justice. That would, they say, be "putting Bill over in a big way." A good many would think in quite too big a way. These plans would not be worth reporting but for the influence of the planners with the President and the many instances in which they have shown it.

SO FAR as Mr. Murphy is concerned there is for him chiefly because elevating him to the bench is the only way in which they can get their young favorite, Mr. Jackson, into the Attorney Generalship. They take it for granted that Mr. Roosevelt will fall in with the Murphy-Jackson program just as they are sure he will fall in, should opportunity occur, with the latest plan for Mr. Douglas. As to the latter, knowledge of whom the New Dealers have slated for his successor is not calculated to increase the desire of Mr. Hughes to retire. Rather, it should stiffen his determination not to. As to Mr. Murphy, while perhaps he may go through the Senate without trouble, there is at least a chance that that body may gag at him. One reason is because neither his personality nor his publicity has endeared him to the more discerning members of the Senate; a second is that his attitude toward the sit-down strike while Governor of Michigan and his general radical leanings have not created confidence in his judicial fitness; a third is because, despite insistent boasting of him as a crusader for good government, his record is weak in spots. One of these is in connection with his strange failure to fill the vacancy that has existed for sixteen months on the district court in New Jersey.

HE has been told by leading members of the bar that failure to fill this vacancy is subverting the ends of justice. He has been urged by the Federal Judges of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals to make a recommendation. He has done nothing and it is being said in New Jersey that the reason he has done nothing is that a row has arisen between Mr. Frank Hague and Senator Smathers as to who should be put in and Mr. Murphy finds himself unable to choose between them. Perhaps this does Mr. Murphy an injustice and certainly his press agents have insisted that his recommendations are always free from political considerations. Nevertheless, the fact remains that he has resisted all demands for action and has permitted this vacancy to exist for an unprecedented time.

THERE is reason to believe that before he is confirmed he will be asked by the Senate committee concerning this and also to explain his inertia in some other respects quite inconsistent with his advertisement as the unrelenting foe of corruption. One of these is the suddenness with which Department of Justice agents ceased their New Jersey activities just before the malodorous Mr. Hague made his third-term statement. Perhaps that was just a coincidence, but when the failure to fill a sixteen-month vacancy on a Federal bench is added, the combination is calculated to arouse Senate curiosity.

BRISTOL WOMEN BOWLERS WIN OVER PHILA. WOMEN

The ladies team representing Bristol Recreation Center journeyed to Dykes' Alleys in Philadelphia, Monday evening, and defeated the Dykes 20th Century ladies in the first of a special home and home series. The second match was close, Bristol having the slight edge by two pins. The third game the Dykes' girls had an off-game and only totalled 675, and lost by a considerable margin. All the Bristol ladies totalled over 438, being led by Mrs. V. Keers with 489, closely followed by Mrs. O'Boyle, who had 486. Mrs. Wilk, of Dykes, also had 489, high total for the losers.

NITRO CAR CRASHES

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE
The Grand Theatre will present as a special attraction on Thanksgiving Day, a stage bill featuring Little Billy Barty of the Our Gang Comedies in person. Little Billy will head his own revue, consisting of Jean Fatty Laymon, a star of Universal Comedies, and a comedian of merit; Audrey Denison, the dancing star of Paramount Pictures, and Little Billy's two sisters. All have seen long service in Hollywood and they present 30 minutes of singing, dancing and fun.

Little Billy clowns, cracks jokes, sings a song, beats a drum and acts as master of ceremonies. He has appeared with, and has been Mickey Rooney's bosom friend for several years. Billy has seen action in "Sing You Sinners" with Bing Crosby, "The Gold Diggers," "Footlight Parade," "Wizard of Oz" and "Midsummer Night's Dream." It is a show the whole family will enjoy, and is the first time that real movie stars have been presented in Bristol.

Also will be shown the pictures of the American Legion Armistice Day celebration held in Bristol on November 11th, showing shots of the football game that morning for the "Little Brown Jug" between Bristol High and Burlington High; the crowds in attendance, and shots of the parade with the enormous crowds lining the streets. The picture will be followed with pictures taken 21 years ago when the boys came home. It will show them "then and now." These pictures will be continued also on Friday and Saturday.

BRISTOL THEATRE

"Smuggled Cargo." Republic's exciting story of the California citrus industry, showing at the Bristol Theatre Thanksgiving Day, mixes romance, vengeance, and orange growers' problems in a novel drama of one of the country's most important industries.

The growers' superhuman battle against the frost that threatens the entire crop,—their attempts to sell a hard-won harvest through a co-operative marketing association and the frenzy that grips them when they lose a profitable contract through the crooked machinations of an unscrupulous independent grower, are all vividly depicted in the picture by a large and capable cast.

Rochelle Hudson and Barry Mackay are co-starred.

BRISTOL HIGH IS FAVORITE TO TOP MORRISVILLE TEAM

Bulldogs Are Anxious To Make It Three Victories Over Bristol

THORN IS THE THREAT

Bristol Can Tie for Conference Laurels If Victorious Tomorrow

When a gunner has been out all season and at the close has little to show for his efforts, his hunting mongrel can sense the gloom of his master. And nothing more would delight the hound than to take advantage of an opportunity to bag a prize catch when the prey is at a moment of ease and unaware of his attacker's prowess; then to lay it at the feet of his master.

Coach John Hoffman and his band of Morrisville Bulldogs have been gunning all season but, in that time, accomplished little. And so it would please the Bulldogs not a little to be able to catch the Bristol High Bunny at an opportune time—a moment when the innocent rabbit was unaware of his foe's potent attack—then bring it to their master's feet as the prize catch of the entire season.

That is just what the Bristol Bunnies must be alert for tomorrow—such an attack when they are least expecting it. For once again the local crew will go into the tilt at a heavy favorite to bring home the "bacon" in this annual traditional classic at Morrisville, tomorrow. What's more they must enter the lair of the Bulldog to accomplish that feat.

Although they have been scratched and scarred and beaten badly at times by their foes throughout the season, the Bulldogs still possess some of that fight and power that enabled them to crush the Bunny here two years ago, 26-6; and again, last year, 8-7. If they are given an opportunity to spring that attack again this year, it will be a "dead bunny" for the third straight time.

Thus it will be definitely the duty of the Cards' backfield and secondary to break up the Bulldogs' potent aerial raids which is their strongest weapon. Both decisions copied by the Blue and Gold over the Red and Grey colors were via the medium of air raids. As in the past, they will not accomplish much through the thickets of the Bunnies' forward wall. Therefore, they will take to the ozone from where they can do a lot of damage, especially when they have two good passers like Red Thorn and Eddie Kane.

Thorn is a dangerous threat. He fades back 20 to 30 yards to shoot long passes down the field to open receivers. And if he finds one in the clear tomorrow, it may be the moment of opportunity to strike first, then to put up a valiant defense to withstand any counter-attack. What's more, Thorn can also run and is a good kicker.

The combination of Kane to Bill Talone has also proven successful for the Bulldogs. Added to that is the powerful line smashing of big Bob Purcell and the Bulldogs have plenty of punch though much of it hasn't been displayed this year.

Thus far, they have only a 14-7 decision which was a "shady" one over the Bensalem Owls, to show for their season's efforts, plus a tie with the New Jersey School for the Deaf. But on the other side are such crushing defeats as the pair of 32-0 setbacks handed them by Downingtown and Trenton Catholic, a 41-12 walloping by Trenton High, and losses to Burlington, 6-0; Conshohocken, 13-6, and Princeton, 14-6.

On the other hand, the Cards, off to a poor start, found themselves midway in the campaign, and have, since then, come along rapidly, showing form even in last week's 20-0 setback at the hands of the strong Bridgeport Dragons. Their only other black mark resulted from a 7-6 loss to Bensalem. They have held Trenton Catholic and Conshohocken, both victors over Morrisville, to ties of 0-0 and 6-6, respectively. At the same time they walloped Bordertown, 31-6; crushed the Langhorne Redskins, 60-0, and came up with a hard-earned victory over Burlington, 9-0.

So, on the records of the season, Bristol should win without much trouble. But if their mental attitude is not right, they will receive plenty of trouble, for the Bulldogs will be alert for just such an opportunity to pounce upon their prey and return home for a "real Thanksgiving feast."

As usual, the prize riding on the outcome of this titanic scrap is the championship of the Lower Bucks Conference. As it now stands the Blues are on top of the heap with one victory and no defeats while Bristol sports one triumph and one setback. But should the Cards win today they can at least tie for the honors should the Bulldogs beat Langhorne in their final tilt of the season, Saturday a week. On the other hand, if Morrisville cops the day's honors for the third straight year, they will have annexed the championship for the third consecutive time, providing they win over Langhorne, of which there should be little or no doubt.

BENSALEM OWLS TO MEET ALUMNI ELEVEN ON CORNWELLS FIELD

Turkey Day Game Between These Elevens Made Necessary by Fallsington Change

LANGHORNE - NEWTOWN

This Tilt, However, Will Be Insignificant in Lower Bucks Conference

Two important scraps involving Lower Bucks County scholastic grid combinations to take place tomorrow morning among dozens of other annual Thanksgiving Day tussles, pit the Langhorne Redskins and Newtown Indians against each other at Newtown, and the Bensalem Owls to oppose their Alumni eleven at Cornwells Heights.

The latter contest was made necessary for the annual Turkey Day feast of Owl grid fans when their former rivals, the Fallsington Falcons, swung over from the regular grid game to the six-man sport this Fall, and thereby severed the big traditional tussles between these two Lower Bucks schools. It was two years ago that the Owls last played host to the Falcons and won, 20-0. They also beat them last year at Fallsington, 14-7.

The "heap-big chief" Indian battle confined to the grid battlefield between the Langhorne Redskins and Newtown Indians is again at a high pitch. And, as usual, with the tense rivalry existing between the two traditional foes, there is bound to be plenty of action and excitement on Newtown way tomorrow.

As far as the Lower Bucks Conference is concerned, this tilt is insignificant. But, in itself, it is a terrific struggle that will be a big drawing card for the fans and followers of these two neighborhood towns. And to them it is the biggest game on the slate for the entire day.

Joe Barton, seems to have let us down on this point but we sincerely believe that Joe will steer clear of the black line for the remainder of the season.

Our genial vice-president blasted out a wonderful 110 game in a recent match and although we do not think this will cop the high single prize nevertheless it proves to the novices that everybody can hit them once in a while.

We understand that Bristol sent two teams down to Jimmy Lyke's Twentieth Century Alleys last Sunday evening. The women's team composed of V. Keers, E. Huckvale, C. Keers, J. Hubbard and S. O'Boyle, gave the 20th Century gals a terrific lacing. The local lasses started things popping in the very first game, rolling a magnificent 852 total. "Dutch" Keers led the attack with a 489 total and Jean Hubbard rolled the high single game, 196. When we asked for the scores rolled by the men, we were told that they forgot to bring them home. Chick O'Boyle and Mike Kondyra were the high men but the rest are still looking for the pocket. Well boys, you still have a chance to even things up in that return match.

With approximately four more weeks to go in the first half there will be plenty of competition for the league leaders. Watch out boys, you're never "in" until that nat pin falls.

Just a few words of advice from your Tenpin Tattler. Put on your bib and tucker and hie to the Bristol Alleys after you eat that big turkey dinner tomorrow. It will help to digest it and with this thought in mind we'll scrape up a few more wisps of bowling gossip.
